THE HOUSE OF NORDHEIMER has for over sixty years been identified with the greatest musical instrument makers of the world.

Secret of The Steinway

To "assemble," or put together a piano, is the key from the inside, the action from the outside, the case from the top, and so on, is a comparatively easy task. To build a piano from the beginning is an entirely different matter.

A peculiar distinction of Steinway & Sons is that they manufacture in their own factory and factories every portion of a piano, building their instrument entire. In this fact lies one of the secrets of its greatness and worth.

This makes the Steinway, not an "assemblage," but an entire whole, producing a harmony and unity that can be achieved in no other way.

The workmen likewise are more than makers of parts; they are artists, working intelligently toward one end—the production of a perfect piano. Consequently, they impart a beauty of workmanship, a perfection of art and of final result, impossible to be attained under other conditions.

For the same reason also the Steinway possesses an individuality, an integrity of being, an endowment of rich, tender, emotional beauty of tone, which distinguish it from every other piano in the world.

The M. & S. Grand Piano is five feet ten inches in length. Scientific experiments have determined this to be the exact size necessary to reproduce the remarkable attributes of the larger Steinway Grand Pianos. Price $925

The Vertegrand, the new model in upright form, possesses all the fundamental qualities of the more expensive piano, but is constructed so simply that it can be sold for $600
